PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 11, 1865.

Wailings of the Pessimists.

The Copperhead is everywhere at it continues to reboant through the land. Everybody is croaking about our future. Calamity, the prospect of internal strife, and the imminent tendency of the country toward depotism. Their incessant lamentations can be compared to nothing except the song which once mpanied the harp of a thousand strings. Though they are depraved, they tell us of their constitutional rights, it is pretty evident that they have one privilege left them—that of crying loudly and ceaselessly for the restoration of what they allege they have lost. Free speech they tell us is interdicted; yet who so loud in censure, or so furious in denunciation as declamation as they? The freest law are abolished they complain. But when aggrieved or wronged who so swift as they to resort to law as a means of redress? Imaginary grievances are conjured up, doleful complaints without number are utter. Terrible forewarnings of great impending wrongs are given—calamities which never happen are predicted. Society they inform us, is altogether corrupt: the functions of justice are polluted, a moral plague infests the whole land. Week after week and year after year they continue to make the round of this miserable circle of imaginary woes. Every incident that transpires, however insignificant, is converted into an argument to heighten the color of the wretched scene which they keep continually before them. To listen to their dolorous utterances might well lead us to believe them lost to all hope both for the country, themselves and their follow men.

We might ask the cause of all this gloominess—these dreadful forebodings. Why do these prophets of ill give themselves no peace? Why do they thus torture their minds with dark thoughts and give place to none but the most sorrowful visions? The answer is ready. The negro is free, and their lifelong work of holding him in servitude is at an end. Their labor for preparing him for perpetual slavery has been expended in vain.

There is a class of Englishmen whose thoughts run in the same channel with those of our peevish American brethren. According to them, our country is ruined—lost beyond redemption. Take the following from the London Morning Herald as a sample.

"America is given over to Nemesis. The people of the Northern States who rushed so madly into an unjust fratricidal war, are now suffering from the evils their work has wrought. The latest accounts from the Empire City seem almost to compel the belief that law and order have lost their power in the land of the stars and stripes. From the narrative of the correspondent the entire territory of the Union seems smitten with a moral epidemic, as desolating as and infinitely more appalling than the ravages of the dreadful pestilence or the full swoop of the avenging angel."

This sounds so much like the terrible things which Copperhead papers are always saying that we might readily suppose the paragraph came from one of them. A Copperhead paper could not do better than to take this extract and enlarge upon it—giving us to understand what the world abroad thinks of the profligacy of a country whose people are now just out. all free.

All things come to an end, and so we suppose the wailings of the pessimists will sometime cease. But as their cries just now seem to be redoubled, we may infer that it will be a long time yet before they get that peace of mind to which they have been strangers these many years.

THE FACTORY AT OREGON CITY.—The Woolen Factory at Oregon City has been in operation some weeks, and works with great perfectness in all its departments. The building—a brick structure—is considerably larger than any other of a similar kind on the Pacific coast. The "Pioneer Mill" of California—the largest in that State—is but one hundred and forty seven feet in length, while the Oregon City Mill is one hundred and ninety. Though the San Francisco Bulletin recently published an article disparaging the mills of this State, it appears that Oregon has two establishments of larger size and greater capacity than any in California. The Oregon City Mills are running only three sets of machinery at present, but the building has room enough for ten. The balance of the machinery will be set up and put in operation as soon as possible.

In its various arrangements the Factory at Oregon City is far superior to our other mills. It is furnished with every convenience which experience has shown to be necessary. Its appliances for washing and drying wool render these operations perfectly easy and very expeditious. The furnace and boiler by means of which this part of the work is done, are situated in a separate building at a little distance from the main structure. A very large tank is placed in this building and filled with water by means of a stream turned into it from the race or flume above. A jet of steam under a pressure of sixty or eighty pounds to the inch is then forced into the tank, causing the water to boil in a very short space of time. This water is then drawn off through pipes into the main building where the washing is done. The process of washing is very rapid. Next comes that of drying the wool, which is done with equal facility. The wool, after it is removed from the place of washing, is put into a large frame which has a bottom made of wire. Under this a current of hot air from the furnace is driven by a blower. In this manner several hundred pounds of wool, though taken dripping from the water in which it is washed, may be dried thoroughly in ten minutes time.

The machinery in use in the mill is all new and of the best approved kinds. When the remainder of its added, the Oregon City Factory will be best establishment of its kind on the Pacific coast. It will employ above one hundred and fifty operatives, and will require thirty five thousand pounds of wool per month. Its water power is unequaled elsewhere in the whole country. The erection of these mills is an important achievement for Oregon City, and one that will accomplish much for the industries of the State.

"POETIC JUSTICE."—A number of South Carolinian freedmen have combined together and raised several thousand dollars for the purpose of reviving the Charleston Mercury once known as the most ultra pro slavery and secession sheets in the South but henceforth to be devoted to the cause of freedom and the equal rights of man. The cup of retribution is filling up drop by drop and the law of compensations and balances is setting all things even.

A SYMPATHETIC FRIEND.—It is quite as we expected. Wirz, the wholesale murderer, has found a friend and defender in one of our Copperhead papers—the Register. The last number of that sheet prolongs its cry of anguish through an entire column. As these monsters of the rebellion are one by one paying the penalty of their crimes the grief of their stricken friends is agonizing to hear. We hope the Register will not discover reason to be comforted.

A Copperhead paper in Wisconsin says with exquisite humor: "The great Democratic party of the country stands ready to continue that service which it has so faithfully rendered in the past." The irony or complicity of the most merciless of opponents, could scarcely be more severe than this. In the remark above quoted we find Mouses turning his own shafts of ridicule against himself.

COASTING TRADE OF SAN FRANCISCO.—The annual report of the Harbor Master of San Francisco shows that there are now engaged in the bay and coasting trade of that place, five hundred and twenty seven vessels, having an aggregate of six hundred and thirty thousand and twenty-four tons.

[REGULARLY TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO NOVEMBER 7.

Wisconsin Election.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 8.—Returns in this city and the State indicate a large majority for Fairchild, Democratic candidate for Governor.

Gales on the Southern Coast.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The steamers arriving from Hamilton, Bermuda, etc., report heavy gales with much loss of vessels in distress. The gale occurred this week, and the greatest force of the storm was felt on Thursday.

Georgia Repudiates the Rebel Debt.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 6.—The Convention has repudiated the war debt by a vote of 115 to 11.

Reconstruction in Florida.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The New York Herald publishes a summary of Governor Marvin's Message to the Florida Reconstruction convention (Governor Marvin is a colored man). He will advise the passage of a law conferring on negroes the privilege of voting on negroes. He believes Congress will refuse to admit persons to the convention who cannot vote. He will recommend the repudiation of the rebel debt, and that their leaders be removed from the State. Without these changes, the colored people will have no safeguards against the imposition of fraud or violence by employers with them. He thinks the emancipated people will be generally content, industrious and enterprising, even in the absence. The exercise of the ballot. He also recommends that the Convention declare the secession ordinance illegal, and that the Legislature of the amendment prohibiting slavery.

Another Voice against Jeff. Davis.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Times says General Longstreet, while in this city declared that the rebellion could and would have succeeded if it had not been for the incapacity of Jeff. Davis, whose interminable dastardly all these hopes and that on several occasions he prevented the rebels from taking Washington and making it their base of offensive operations.

General Items.

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 8.—Orders have been received from Washington that no more steamers or vessels will be discharged from the Government service, also stopping the sales of transportation property.

It is officially stated from rolls in possession of the Government, that General Lee's army, at the surrender, numbered 28,000 men, and Johnson's, 17,000.

Yesterday the Secretary of War ordered a suspension of the sale of Government hospitals in anticipation of a visitation of the cholera.

U. S. Senator from South Carolina.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A dispatch to the Savannah Herald, dated Columbia, Oct. 31, says Judge Manning has been elected United States Senator for the term ending in 1871.

The Governor of Nova Scotia—Tunis Embassy—John Mitchel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Among the passengers from Halifax is Hon. Mr. Fenwick Williams, now Governor of Nova Scotia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Tunis embassy left Washington for Philadelphia yesterday morning.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—John Mitchel arrived in this city yesterday, took the oath of American citizenship, obtained passports, and said he was not going to London. [So he has been released.—EDITOR OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Times special dispatch says: General Breckinridge continues will be promulgated. General Hoffman is coming secretary of prisoners, has been relieved. General Hitchcock succeeds him.

General Longstreet had an interview with the President yesterday, and also took the amnesty oath.

Applications for Pardon.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Pardon applications are on the increase. Four hundred were received yesterday from Georgia, and two hundred from North Carolina.

The Balloon Bridal—Maximilian's Consul.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The balloon bridal contemplated for a long time takes place to day. The parties are Miss Mary W. Alter, of St. Louis, and Dr. J. F. Bovinton of Syracuse.

M. Lomis de Arago, who for some time past has been exercising the nominal functions of Consul of Maximilian at this port, sailed on the steamer Vera Cruz to day for Mexico.

Foreign.

HALIFAX, November 7.—The Cabot from Liverpool, October 28th and Queenstown 29th has arrived.

Lord Palmerston was buried at Westminster Abbey on the 27th. The Queen and Cabinet were present. Parliament and the Diplomatic Body were also duly represented. In the streets and through the streets the sight which the funeral procession passed.

The Times accepts the reconstructed Cabinet as a unit country. It acknowledges that Lord Russell has some genius and a decided political experience; but regards it should be necessary to refer to politicians more than one or two years old. The Times would rather throw up their New York, Oct. 28.—Hilda is the steamer Africa has been received.

In regard to the Adams and Brownlow party and new Boston News says: Richmond is a long time that the claims made by Sharkey and the American people, under similar circumstances, will be treated with the same consideration. The Executive Department of the United States will find a different tone. Associate Justice Rosewell Field is the first to receive a commission.

Wilmer & Smith's European Times says: It is just possible to avoid the payment of £2,500,000 in money but we may lose by putting on opposite sides of a principle is unmistakable as it ceases to when the cases are stated, and when the Americans are neutrals and we the belligerents, neither party in power would pocket the affront and appeal to war in these days would be a blunder of this business. But something must be said more in future when the practice is more defined and more turned against us in ways that are both unfriendly.

The Star says: "Russell is said to have the most dangerous powers from the responsibility for the injury which their evil effects may have inflicted upon the country, and has taken very dangerous ground for sometime nations whose they may be liable to suffer by such acts. Whatever views may be taken of the justice and claims of the Alabama we trust we shall be found standing on solid ground. The Chancellor of the Exchequer's speech was not such as to lead to the belief that the Government will be found ready to make any concessions to the Alabama claims. Napoleon and the Times have said all that can be said on the Italian question."

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—The Land Office in Marysville has been moved to Shasta. Will Short, Esq., left Sonora on the 3d for Los Angeles. Many of the emigrants to Kern River Valley are returning, disgusted with the country.

This morning on the Folsom railroad, the engine of the Journal was coming over from Oakland in the 6 o'clock train, when it was discovered that it was impossible to use 24 yards in such a direction the rails to turn. Italian Bishop had on which there were two men. One of the men named Wm. J. Johnson was killed. Two of the steamer's paddle wheels and several others, and the pilot house were torn from the pilot. The other man escaped uninjured. Pomilleon was taken to the hospital where he shortly afterwards died. The certificate of incorporation of the Pacific Congress Springs was filed to-day. AN INCIDENT OF SHERMAN'S CAMPAIGN.—One of the rebel officers who retreated from Charleston when Sherman's army was forcing South Carolina in pieces, relates the following:

"At Cheraw I got assigned to the Stono Scouts, an independent company acting as a body guard to Hardee. I was put in command of it, and I should retain my command with it, but expect every day to hear that it was captured. Said to be by Wade Hampton's Legion. I marched up on the road to Cheraw, and there was the greatest confusion I ever saw. Citizens packing their furniture into wagons, and preparing to leave. Soldiers destroying cotton, burning it, and setting fire to houses. I was ordered to picket the road, and relieve the rear guard. I found the road blocked up with cotton bales, and piles of rosin and turpentine. I was ordered to burn it. I had to fire the cotton myself, as the soldiers refused to do it. I had to burn the rosin and turpentine. I was ordered to destroy the bridge across the Pedee River, but I refused to do it, as I knew it belonged to a private citizen. I was then ordered to report to General Hardee, who was in command of the rear guard. I found him in the act of mounting his horse, and he ordered me to follow him. We rode on to the bridge, and he ordered me to burn it. I refused, and told him I would not destroy private property. He then ordered me under arrest, and I was placed in charge of the provost guard. I was then ordered to burn the bridge, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by General Wheeler, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by General Wade Hampton, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by General Joseph E. Johnston, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by General Robert E. Lee, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by President Jefferson Davis, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by the Confederate Congress, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by the Confederate States of America, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by the Confederate States of America, and I refused. I was then ordered to burn the bridge by the Confederate States of America
